

FISCHER & KERN

Corporate Social Responsibility

At Fischer & Kern, we work from a corporate platform based upon sustainability, ethics and transparency. Our values are founded in the strong cooperation between Fischer & Kern and our global partners, stakeholders and customers. A primary focus area of ours is to ensure a sustainable development of IT technology – now and in the future. As an international IT company we believe that we have significant responsibility towards ensuring running a business with an essential commitment to environmental and social factors. We regard Corporate Social Responsibility as an organic and ongoing practice and therefore have a holistic approach to our CSR strategy. We aim to make sure continually rethink and review our strategy in order to meet market demand and development.

Corporate Social Responsibility is rooted in the strategical objectives of Fischer & Kern combined with other initiatives in the overall activities of the company. Fischer & Kern is highly aware of the importance of choosing the right partners and stakeholders with an honest and sustainable business approach. This means that social responsibility and sustainability are a central topics when a new partnership or cooperation is established. We are only involved in working with companies that work and operate responsibly and understand the importance of a healthy, established and a long-term secured CSR strategy – a strategy with the purpose of creating a better tomorrow. We are persistently working towards creating a sustainable development of IT technology thereby ensuring a constant improvement of environmental and general working conditions.

Collaboration And Cooperation Is The Key To Us

A deep and sincere involvement in our collaboration is an established theme across the organization of Fischer & Kern. That is the reason for our persistent aim for feedback from both colleagues, partners and customers. Only through feedback and dialogue can we improve and optimize work processes and methods. That is the main reason why conversation and dialog is such an important element in our culture and values.

A Deep Employee Involvement

At Fischer & Kern we believe that a variety of individual personalities are vital in creating the optimal workforce and the best possible team ethic. This is the reason we regard welcoming strong individuals and strive to meet the need for development, fulfilling of ambitions and well-being of employees – to ensure that Fischer & Kern attract and retain the optimal workforce to meet the demands of customers and business partners alike.

We strive to deliver the ultimate result to our customers and business partners. A deep employee involvement furthermore makes Fischer & Kern an attractive place of employment. We have substantial focus on family values and believe that being a company welcoming and appreciating a well-functioning private base contributes to the general successful development of Fischer & Kern.

